What is the "Hub"?

- Developed in 2018
- Collaboration of careers education, equity and disability services
- Engaged the expertise of disability employment service - GradWISE
- First careers service of its kind!

Ideal employees understand:

- Themselves as emerging professionals
- The professional contributions they want to make
- The things they want to learn next

What we do

- Develop career management skills and insight to grow as an emerging professional
 - Support the transition from student identity to the workplace
- Engage with an inclusive, self-directed learning model
 - Identify and refine career goals
 - Develop employability skills

How we work

- Individual consultations
- Group workshops, events and a Community of Practice
- Collaborate with other services to provide wrap-around support
- Work with employers to be disability-confident and how to provide an inclusive workplace
- "One off" and ongoing support provided

It takes a team to tango...

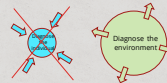

Collaboration with employers

- Student facing events
 - Visit students on campus
 - Webinars
 - Collaborative efforts
 - Planning
 - Forums
- ➔ Virtual careers and employability event: September 2020 (mid-semester break)

Towards a social model

Student feedback

- I've been waiting for this my whole life
- I didn't know there were so many things I could do
- This is a new beginning for me
- In what was just a short time, your help was immeasurable

Swinburne Strategic Plan 2025

- To be "known for who we include rather than who we exclude"
- Celebrate the way diversity "enriches experiences, fosters understanding [and] drives innovation..."
